

A Terrible Experience

Anna went on a study tour to Canada. She made a new friend, Harry, there. They went home by bus after school every day. Mr and Mrs Brown's family stayed with her during her study tour.

Harry and Anna got on the bus. The bus was almost empty but there was a woman on the bus. Harry and Anna held the handle in case of falling down and injuring themselves. They were chatting happily. They were talking in English because she wanted to improve her English. She got the hang of it.

Suddenly, Harry's phone rang loudly as someone was calling him. He picked up his phone. It was his mum. Harry's mum told him, 'When you get back home, can you defrost the chicken?' Harry said okay afterwards. The lady beside him looked at the wallet in his pocket suspiciously.

The woman reached out her hand and took Harry's wallet. Anna reacted just in time to block her. Anna and Harry felt angry.

Suddenly, a man at the back got up to defend them. The man threatened to call the police and the woman backed off. Harry and Anna thanked the man because the man was a hero.
