

Jason's Birthday

Last week was Jason's birthday. He was turning twelve! His parents and relatives gave him a lot of red packets. With all of that money, it rounded up to nearly $500! Jason thought of buying a robot for himself to celebrate his birthday.

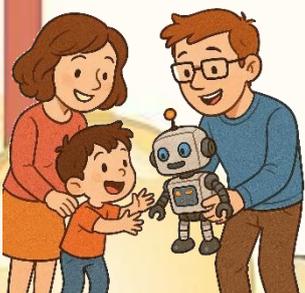

Jason and his parents were having dinner while watching TV. An earthquake happened in Japan! It was horrible! 'Breaking news! People in Japan are suffering because of the serious earthquake!' the reporter said.

The next day, Jason kept seeing the damage that the earthquake did. It destroyed thousands of buildings, roads and houses. There wasn't enough water or food. Many people became homeless. They had to sleep in tents. It was an absolute tragedy!

After that, Jason decided to donate some of his birthday money to help! He thought if everyone could donate money to help, Japan could be rebuilt in no time! Japanese government could rebuild the country! Jason's parents saw this and decided to buy him a robot for his kindness! Jason understood that kindness always brought a good ending!
